Isle of Shuna plc

Rod Knutton appointed as Head of Technical Development

Isle of Shuna plc (“Shuna”) is delighted to announce that it has appointed Rod Knutton as Head of Technical Development. This is a key step in Shuna’s strategy to develop value added mussel opportunities.

Rod has significant experience in the food industry and for 16 years has been creating processes and adding value to high quality raw materials in order to create new products. These have been targeted at both the retail and food service trades and include added value processes for farmed Scottish shellfish.

During this period he has won a number of prestigious awards, including:

- Winner Food Production Innovation Awards 1991
- The Seafish Challenge Highly Commended for Seafood Product 1999
- The Most Innovative Value Added Process Implemented in 1999

Products developed by Rod have used ingredients including roll mop herrings and cockles as well as mussels. Previously Rod was Managing Director and part owner of Macrae Foods where he was responsible for creating industry-leading food products.

Commenting on this appointment, John Brewer, Managing Director of Shuna, said “We are very pleased that Rod has decided to work with us and we look forward to using his skills and drive to accelerate our value-added product development.”

Notes to Editors:

Isle of Shuna plc was established in March 2005 to participate in the consolidation and growth of the Scottish seafood industry, initially through the harvesting, processing and marketing of fresh mussels. The Company has brought together an experienced management team with the established trading businesses of Demlane Limited and Isle of Shuna Shellfish.
